THE UNEXPECTED BLAST

An Unforgettable Adventure

Begun by Elaine Landau and completed by……

It all started the summer we visited our uncle in South America. The volcano near the village where we were staying was supposed to be inactive, yet lately steam had been leaking from it. My little brother and I were near the foot of the volcano the morning it began to shake. Suddenly, its north side collapsed. Clouds of rock and ash shot into the air. Lava and mudflows now blocked our path back to our uncle's cabin. My little brother was crying, and I knew I had to think fast. So I……..

· Original text ©2009 by Elaine Landau for Every Child a Reader · www.bookweekonline.com ·

· Original text ©2009 by Elaine Landau for Every Child a Reader · www.bookweekonline.com ·